SITE DESCRIPTION:

A weatherboard and corrugated iron structure with milled timber stable set amidst a well tended and established garden. The house is essentially in original condition with the exception that a back porch has been added (sympathetic design) and the roof colour has been changed from red to green.

HISTORY:

The house was constructed in 1902 by Messrs. Walker and Hayton who then built the house on the adjoining 'Shrub End' property.

BOUNDARY:

COMMENTS:

The site is well maintained and despite not being an outstanding example of a rural complex, retains many original features.
