SITE DESCRIPTION:

A remnant orchard on a valley flat with one group of 21 fruit trees and another of 14 fruit trees further down the valley.

HISTORY:

The Forcett district contained a number of small orchards in the first half of the twentieth century, of which this is a remnant. Located on William Walton's 100 acre grant the property was owned by the Wiggins family for many years.

BOUNDARY:

COMMENTS:

The orchard reflects the importance of the fruit industry to the district earlier in the twentieth century.
